

Small World

The 12-gore pattern is cut into required size by Walter Minks.

WHEN NATIONS shift borders or combine; when natural forces create new islands or shift shorelines; when photographs from space outline new details of our lands, these changes become, as rapidly as possible, reduced to globe-sized worlds fitting within a child's hand.

Behind his firm's yearly production of 600,000 world globes in the United States and 200,000, in nine languages, made in Denmark, is Luther Irwin Replogle. To his manufacturing firms come the latest techniques and equipment, but the requirements for the finished product remain the same: hard work, attention to details and patience.

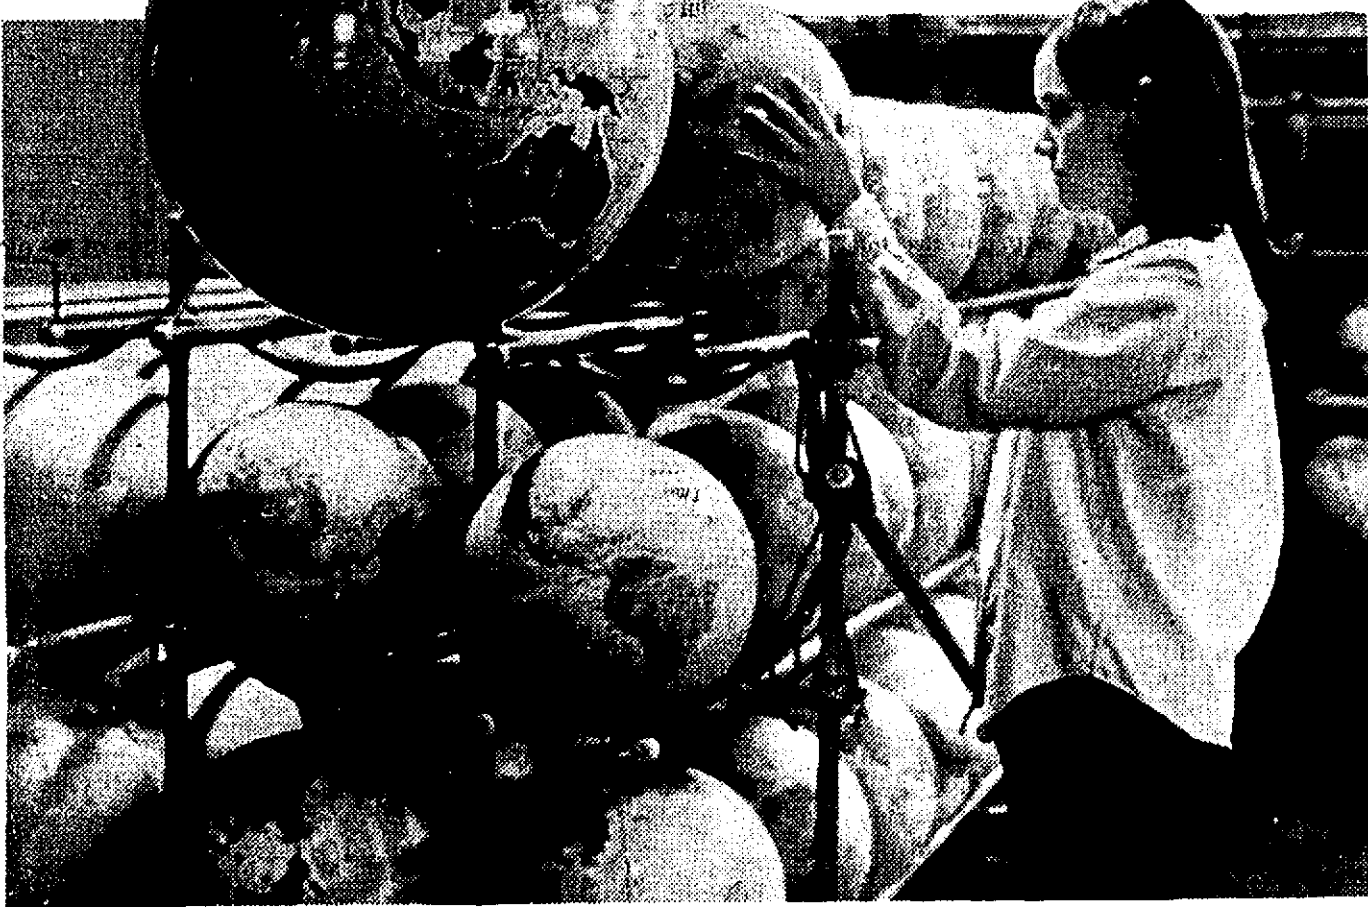

From the cartography section, where map-makers carefully scrutinize information sources for world changes, to the processing rooms, where huge machines punch out 12-gore patterns for assembly, these requirements are rigidly followed.

Two globe forms emerge in this process: a bas-relief model, where dimensional viewing of high-land areas is available, and a smooth-surface globe, where height is indicated by tonal color. With the successful photographing of the Moon's dark side, the firm now produces smooth-surface miniature moons.

When World War II sent men to remote areas of the world, globe sales and interest increased. Time and Man's increased quest to know other lands brought people to globes to find new views of their world. Today the globes shown here educate and enhance those who stand on our large world and study these small worlds with interest.

Hippies Are Ousted

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Ministry of the Interior said Thursday night 36 Americans who established headquarters in a remote village of the state of Oaxaca to consume hallucinatory mushrooms have been ousted from the country in the past two days.

A spokesman from the ministry said the hippies had been slowly concentrating during the last few months in Huastla de Jimenez, in Mexico's southern state of Oaxaca, where some of the best magic mushrooms are cropped.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

HOARD SILVER DOLLARS: Four months ago YOUTH BEAT reported to you straight from the busy trading floor of the New York Mercantile Exchange that the vanishing silver dollar was becoming a cellars, bureau drawers... are now worth up to twice the $ sign stamped on them...

THAT SPACE PROGRAM DIVIDEND: The radical new blanket developed for U. S. outer-space programs... weighing only eight ounces, made of a tissue-light aluminumized material that reflects back body heat... we recommended for watching cold weather sports last winter. Now, it has taken over as an all-purpose sportsman's blanket... used anywhere in the wilderness. In a crash landing of father and young daughter in Alaska this summer, the blankets kept the plane-wrecked occupants cozy... and the silver side reflected signals to rescuers. Improved model ready for this winter folds up from 56 x 84 inches into the size of a cigarette pack, weighs only two ounces, remains flexible and holds warmth in temperatures as low as 60 degrees below zero.

SIT IN A SAUNA BATH AND LIKE IT: Have you ever thought of baking nude in 170-210-degree dry heat... then rushing out to a cold shower... and repeating this cycle? This is the way you get to love sauna baths, national pastime of the hardy Finns... it's really perspiring yourself clean in a small, insulated room brought to low oven heat... Getting to be a big ablation fad in the United States. Best for beginners to try out at lower heat and for shorter than the usual 10-15 minute exposure... then collapse into bed after the cold shower. Cost for a cool buy of this hot "bath"—$25-50, home-built... a few hundreds to over a $1,000, store-bought. Try one first at a health club before you persuade your parents to install one.

A DEER IS A DEER BUT DON'T DARE A DEER: Simplified, this means... whenever you drive in deer country (nowadays this can mean suburbs of big cities)... don't dash through, regardless of four-footed stags and does... Because an estimated several hundred thousand accidents between cars and deer will occur this year... killing around 150,000 deer... injuring thousands of people, some fatally... If you don't want a 350-pound buck coming through the windshield to land with a thud on your lap, watch for the "deer crossing" signs... be a deer and don't drive durngly through deer country this year.

THAT GROOVY LITTLE DESK FOR YOUR ROOM: O.K., buy it if you want, but when you shop remember that workmanship in furniture doesn't show (you've got to look for it)... and some retailers report as many as one in five pieces sent them by manufacturers have defects. First thing, pick a good reputable dealer. Then check (turn it over boldly like a furniture mover) to see—no gashes or scratches, nothing loose... legs, drawer pulls, joints are tight, that the woods all match... sometimes a veneer (like mahogany), a thin sheeting of wood glued over another, is sold for solid wood; lastly, the finish... everything sanded smooth, well-painted, lacquered for looks and protection... Most of this applies, too, in buying cheaper (but you do the work of finishing) unpainted furniture.

SHE FOUND OUT IN TIME

Dear Helen: I was interested in your reply to the 16-year-old girl who couldn't stand the thought of marriage. When I was 16, I felt something like she did, but my friends kept pointing out the rosy aspects. They finally convinced me that marriage would be all fun and romance. As I knew I was in love with David, it wasn't so hard. I planned to finish school afterwards, and also work part time. Oh, I had it all figured!

My mother greeted my announcement with hysterical laughter. She knew I wasn't ready for marriage, but she also knew I was stubborn enough to elope. At last she made a proposition: if I would take full responsibility for running our house for three months, she and Dad would give us their blessings.

I thought this would be a breeze. I was responsible for cooking, housecleaning, laundry, buying groceries, paying the bills. I even volunteered to take on the care of my two small brothers, while I was home from school.

At the end of six weeks, I was ready for a nervous breakdown. We were living on hot dogs and canned baked beans. The ironing piled sky-high and went unattended. My brothers got very few baths, and the house was a disaster. You couldn't have made me get married then!

My mother not only taught me the facts of life, but she showed me life, too. I found I didn't love David. Now in my last year of college, I am engaged to a wonderful, understanding man. Yesterday my ex-best friend called me for the first time in years. While I'd been having the time of my life, single, she'd been slaving away at a stuffy little job, trying to supplement her husband's inadequate income. She had two children and was expecting a third. She would leave that "perfect" man she married at 16, except she has no money or any place to go.

If only some of these star-struck teens could realize the problems ahead! May I pass this on to them, although they probably won't heed it.

Don't get married until you have finished your education. Don't get married under the fear of military service. Make sure you have dated every possible person you ever wanted to date. Be sure you are ready to cope with children. And most important of all, make sure it is real. If it won't wait, then it isn't love!—MARYA

Dear Marya: Thanks for an excellent letter. I wish every romance-struck teen could try your "cure," then memorize your last sentence: "If it won't wait, it isn't love!" Wanting everything—RIGHT NOW—is a sure sign of immaturity.

I'm reminded of the girls who wrote, "My parents won't sign for us to get married... They just don't understand... By the time I'm 18, we may not even LIKE each other!"—H.

Dear Helen: I'm 16 and have been allowed to date since I was 14. But all of a sudden my parents say they let me start too young, so whenever I ask to go out with this nice boy, they have a big conference—about maybe they shouldn't let me date any more. They usually say "Okay," but not until an hour or so before my date. This makes planning anything very difficult and I don't know how long the boy will stand for it.

Maybe I was too young at 14, but they shouldn't start making up for their mistake now, should they? I'm trustworthy and they know it. Their excuse is they think I'll get bored with going out, and tired of boys.—NOT BORED

Dear N.B.: Your parents excuse doesn't hold water. What they really mean is "We're backtracking because we're scared." The reason? Probably—(My old IGAP again)—because you've been to car - date. Make a point of coming home earlier than your deadline and invite your boyfriend in to visit with them often. They'll soon hunker down on that new plateau.—H.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By GENE HANDSAKER

(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Almost any star from Astaire to Zsa Zsa, Don Cash has made up.

Recently he spent 3½ hours a day turning Roddy McDowall into a chimpanzee for the movie "Planet of the Apes." At the moment he's fashioning 200 mustaches for the bandits to wear in a Jimmy Stewart western.

Offbeat work? Yes, but for Don Cash the most rewarding phase of his 38 years as one of Hollywood's top make-up men was a sideline for which, at first, he didn't get paid.

"It's the greatest thing," he says, "to see depressed, discouraged men come to life again."

In World War II Cash—chubby, ruddy and now 59—made an artificial nose for Louis Hayward to wear in a movie in which Hayward was playing five roles.

Somebody wrote a magazine article about it. Someone at Los Angeles County General Hospital saw the article and phoned Cash: Could he make an artificial nose for a man who had lost most of his own?

Cash could and, working with molds and sponge rubber in his home workshop, did. Soon he had a busy but profitless sideline making artificial ears, eyes, noses and fingers for the charity patients.

Then free-lancing as a make-up artist, Cash recalls: "I raised the price of my work to cover the cost of my materials. And a funny thing, the more I charged the studios, the better they liked it."

The Army heard of Cash's sideline and recruited him to repair GIs' battle-damaged faces at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

He worked in operating rooms, carving features plastic surgeons would implant. Ears, noses and fingers he attached with liquid surgical adhesive

McNamara Says Romney Is Blind

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara called George Romney a man apparently "blind to the truth" and one Republican saw the administration assault as a potential political favor for the Michigan governor.

"I suppose this could only help him, really, especially coming from McNamara," said Iowa GOP Chairman Robert D. Ray after the Pentagon attack Thursday on Romney.

Romney, in Portland, Ore., told newsmen Thursday night he would be delighted to compare his record on Vietnam with McNamara's. "I think the American people are hungry for people to say what they think," he said.

And in a speech to a Republican fund-raising dinner there, Romney described "the administration credibility gap" as a "national embarrassment."

McNamara's attack came as Romney, an unannounced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, faced criticism within his own party for asserting the administration brainwashed him in 1965 into declaring U.S. involvement in Vietnam was morally right.

He now calls the involvement a tragic error.

A top supporter of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon—now rated Romney's chief rival for the nomination in 1968—called the assertion evidence of Romney weakness in dealing with issues.

Former Oklahoma Gov. Henry Bellmon said Thursday that would be very damaging in a presidential campaign.

McNamara told a news conference Romney "appears to be blind to the truth. I don't think Gov. Romney can recognize the truth when he sees it."

Ray said of McNamara: "If I had to pick my enemies, I'd want him for one." He said the administration assault could muffle criticism of Romney within his own party.

Romney comes to Washington later today to talk with Republican national committeemen meeting in a two-day session expected to formally approve Miami Beach for the party's 1968 national convention.

Neither Nixon nor Romney has declared himself a candidate for the nomination that will be awarded there next year.

and Cash-created artificial skin. He accompanied repaired patients to Washington night clubs to see if strangers could detect, say, an artificial nose. If they could, he'd tell the GI: "Let's go back and work on it some more."

He created artificial eyes for a man blinded by a booby trap, attaching them realistically to spectacles. The spirited patient ultimately gave up his guide dog—"what the hell am I pulling him around for?"—and, the last Cash heard, was living on an Arkansas farm with his wife and two children.

Cash entered the Army a captain and, for his work, was promoted to major. His efforts were unpublicized at the time because, he says, the Army didn't want to stress the nature of the injuries.

The U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce later presented him its distinguished service award on a nationwide radio program dramatizing his replacement of most of a soldier's face. The narrator praised Cash for "restoring his fellow men to useful lives."

Lorne Greenes Are Expecting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Lorne Greene, 52, says he and his wife, Nancy, are expecting a child in February.

The star of the "Bonanza" television series made the announcement Thursday.

Greene, who was divorced, married the former Nancy Ann Deale in December 1961.

Unrest Widens in Ranks of Teachers

Unrest in the ranks of the nation's teachers widened today as the Baltimore school system was threatened with a strike.

Detroit teachers remained out and New York City schools braced for a threatened mass resignation Monday.

More than 600,000 youngsters were already enjoying extended summer vacations in Michigan, Broward County, Fla., East St. Louis, Ill., and McCracken County, Ky. Strikes in Baltimore and New York could add nearly 1.3 million to that total.

The Baltimore teachers union said a strike could occur before the end of next week after negotiations with school officials broke down Thursday over bargaining procedures and non-teaching duties.

The union representing 8,000 teachers said classes would open Monday as scheduled but warned that the city's more than 194,000 pupils might be back out in the parks and playgrounds before the end of the week. A membership meeting was called for Tuesday.

In Michigan, pickets continued to march in many of the 30 school districts where contracts are yet to be signed. Nearly half a million youngsters in 17 districts—excluding 300,000 in Detroit—remained locked out of their classrooms.

Both teachers and school officials awaited a state court of appeals hearing Saturday on whether circuit courts can grant injunctions to force teachers without contracts back into the schools.

A few youngsters picketed in Detroit. "We want the teachers to get their money, but we want to go back to school," said one high school girl, Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh ordered public swimming pools kept open and recreation leaders to stay on duty.

Some 2,000 members of the United Federation of Teachers delegate assembly in New York City voted overwhelmingly Thursday night to turn down a two-year, $125-million contract proposal and go ahead with a threatened mass resignation Monday.

The Board of Education's final offer must still be put to a general membership meeting for final action but union president Albert Shanker said, "I am confident the members will back the union leadership."

Meanwhile School Supt. Bernard Donovan directed 1,500 nonteaching members of the system who hold licenses to report to district offices Monday if the resignations occur.

Salary demands of the striking or strike-threatening teachers have ranged from $300 a year in Kentucky to $4,550 more annually after two years for top-scale New York teachers.

Brown Will Be Guarded in Louisiana

By RONALD THOMPSON
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Authorities enforced tough security precautions today for the scheduled arraignment of militant Negro leader H. Rap Brown on a federal gun charge.

Sources at the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission building, where the U.S. commissioner's office is located, said armed guards would be posted on the roof.

Every door in the big granite building would be locked and Brown could leave and enter only through the one on Royal Street, officials said.

Attorneys indicated the arraignment would be a simple procedure, lasting only about 15 minutes, and Brown would be advised of his constitutional rights and asked to state his plea. On a plea of innocent, Brown would continue his freedom under $15,000 bond and trial would be set at a later date, they said.

Brown, 23, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, was indicted by a federal grand jury in New Orleans last month on a charge of carrying a .30-caliber carbine across state lines while under indictment.

The two-count indictment stated that Brown flew from New York to New Orleans with the carbine on Aug. 16 and returned to New York with the weapon two days later. At the time, he was under indictment on a charge of inciting a riot in Maryland.

Brown faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine on each count of the gun transportation indictment.

In Richmond, Va., Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. signed an extradition order Thursday for the return of Brown to Maryland to face charges of inciting to riot and arson.

The order makes Brown subject to immediate arrest in Virginia, even though he is free under $10,000 bail in that state.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Flying Nun" may be able to glide around on air currents, but the premiere show on ABC Thursday night had plenty of trouble getting off the ground.

It was the hour-long pilot film for the half-hour series and gave viewers a chance to see how Sister Bertille happened to fly.

The situation comedy has for its principal character a compulsive little Miss Fixit in a religious habit. She can play a mean game of gin rummy, dance the watusi and even persuade hard-bitten businessmen to give land to the convent. But Mary Poppins, alas, she is not.

Sally Field plays a 90-pound novice with a bizarre "cornette"—or coif—that looks like a seagull in flight and is supposed to catch any wind and boost its wearer into the sky. She gives the role the same cheerful energy and youthful bounce she once invested in "Gidget."

But "The Flying Nun" has its problem, and that seems to be the rather heavy-handed treatment given the whimsy of the show. Fantasy can only succeed if the audience buys the premise and at no point in the opening

Life In Arkansas

By TOMMY YATES
Associated Press Writer
Malvern is the buzziest town around right now, and travelers should be wary of traveling along U.S. 67 through the city until after Saturday unless you sport a beard or wear an Aunt Loweezy-type dress.

The beard is for the men and the dress for the women, of course.

The occasion is Malvern's Frontier Week, composed of various contests, a rodeo and such things as a Gay 90 bathing suit show.

Then there's the hoosegow located on the city's main street, constructed to house those varmints who fail to conform to the western attire.

Frontier Week, or western week as it is often referred to in some other cities, isn't a revolutionary idea, but the manner in which it was born in Malvern is.

About a year ago, Malvern residents gathered and decided they would begin holding old-time town meetings, where everybody got together to discuss how to make things better, and maybe even gossip a little.

It was at one of these meetings that someone suggested a Frontier Week, where all the men would grow beards and dress in old western fashions and the women would wear long dresses.

Those who violated this subjected themselves to being tossed into the jail. To avoid jail, a person could purchase a permit for $1, which allowed the person to shave or not wear a long dress.

Some of the activities during the week have been a sack race, checker contest, horseshoe pitching contest and a fiddler's contest.

show was the flying bit anything more than an obvious and unconvincing gimmick. It seemed to be, in fact, dragged in by the heels.

The report around Hollywood in preseason weeks was that the series might prove to be the surprise hit of the season. Maybe the later episodes will be more amusing and bright.

F. Lee Bailey, the criminal lawyer, made his show business debut as the bland host-interviewer of "Good Company," ABC's adaptation of the old "Person to Person" idea. His first visit was at the home of film star Tony Curtis and family.

The first portion of the half-hour show was interesting because it showed the magnificence of the Curtis estate in Beverly Hills, with Tony indulging in an earnest lecture on art.

Bailey proved to be unexpectedly colorless as host and his questions were the cliches of the movie star interview—"which do you prefer to play in comedies or dramas?"

Queen Mary in Hudson Dock

NEW YORK (AP) — Capt. John Treasure Jones has skippered the giant British liner Queen Mary into its Hudson River dock innumerable times, but until this trip he'd never seen the East River just two miles away across Manhattan Island.

While 3,000 sightseers took advantage of their last chance to tour the 81,237-ton luxury vessel, Capt. Treasure Jones and his wife went for some sightseeing of their own.

They took one of the tiny Circle Line boats and cruised all around Manhattan Island Tuesday. Because of the courtesy of the sea, they didn't have to buy the $2.75 tickets.

The Queen Mary will be retired in October and serve Long Beach, Calif., as a combination hotel and convention hall. She was on her next-to-last visit to New York, but next time will not be open to the public.

BARBS

Once again, as we neared home on return from vacation, we had that old, familiar feeling . . . broke.

Considering all the umbrellaing and big-hatting some gals go through on the beach, they might as well use shun-tan oil.

They don't roll up the sidewalks in our town at night.

No, sir. No one is downtown to roll 'em up.

(Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

Saenger - Sunday & Monday

Rudy Vallee and Robert Morse sing "Grand Old Ivy"—one of the Frank Loesser songs from "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying."

Starts Thursday At Saenger

THE BANTAMS, a trio of brothers aged nine, ten and twelve and billed as the youngest, most exciting rock-and-roll act in the world, co-star with Tom Stern, Preston Foster, Gloria Castillo and special guest star Marnie Van Doren in "You've Got To Be Smart," a sparkling rock-a-billy musical.

harvestime

The "lost coin" was out of circulation. The "lost sheep" was away from the fold. The "lost son" was far from the Father's house. But what a day in history as we see the Prodigal return, put on his old clothes, get his fork and go to the field to do harvest. What a challenge the fields offer this man. It is that way too, with spiritual things — eternal goods — God's work — His church. There is plenty for us to do but so very few who can be depended on to do it. Perhaps it is time for us to start gathering up some of the "fruits-of-the-spirit," love, joy, peace and long-suffering. These are not material, Sir. They are elements or constituent parts of every aspirant of Heaven. Harvest time is a grand time of year. All the granaries need filling, but we must not forget our responsibility to harvest souls.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Biting With Dentures Requires Technique

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I can't chew gum. It sticks to my plastic dentures and I have a deuce of a time trying to scrape it off. I just can't give up chewing—it's the only vice left to me. My doctor made me give up drinking and smoking. What to do?

ANSWER: It's a secret, so don't tell anyone else, but on the end of every package of one of the biggest-selling gums (Wrigley), there's a number. That number indicates the month the gum was manufactured. Gum-chewing denture-wearers tell me that gum more than three months old will not stick to plastic dentures, fillings or crowns.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: My dentures stay in fine. I can eat almost everything except the thing I like most: sandwiches. Every time I take a bite, the back of my upper denture comes down. Sandwiches on white toast are not too bad, but rye bread and rolls are impossible. Any suggestions?

ANSWER: There's a trick to eating sandwiches or any food that requires biting with front teeth. When you bite into a sandwich you're producing a lever with the anterior gums acting as a fulcrum. It's like a seesaw, and the upward pressure in front is greater than the opposite pressure at the back of the denture. This is exaggerated by the natural tendency to pull the sandwich away from the biting force, to help tear it.

The exact opposite should be done. There should be gentle but firm pressure exerted against the denture when biting. Also it sometimes helps to bite, not directly in the middle of the front teeth, but slightly to one side or the other, whichever side works best.

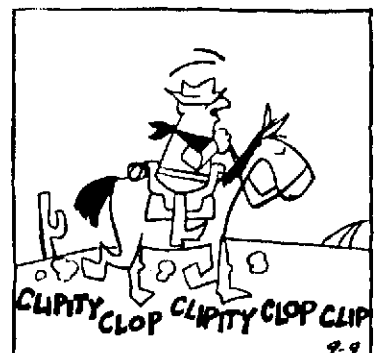

Of course, your difficulty may be with the denture. If the back edge is not tightly adapted to the palate, air gets under the denture, thus breaking the suction. This can usually be adjusted by a technique called post-damming. Ask your dentist about it.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Communists Can't Drive Out Religion

By JOHN WEYLAND
MOSCOW (AP) — Religious belief persists in the Soviet Union in surprising strength despite 50 years of Communist power.

In a recent survey in the large city of Kazan—the first of its kind known to have been made—21 per cent of the adults questioned said they believe in God. Another survey in a typical collective farm area showed that 57 per cent of the families had religious shrines in their homes.

The actual number of believers is probably larger than these figures indicate, since refusal to avow official atheism has social and career disadvantages.

Soviet authorities have expressed concern about the persistence of religion. Pravda, the voice of the Communist party, earlier this year called for an increased struggle against "religious survival." It said this caused "damage to our society" and called for more education in atheism for all age groups.

There is recent evidence that new and more subtle methods will be used since the old crude antireligious propaganda has not worked so well.

Komsomolskaya Pravda, the newspaper of the Young Communist League, unexpectedly printed a letter last week advocating belief in God. This was accompanied by arguments in favor of atheism.

But a polite and rational tone was maintained throughout. The paper, which is read by millions of young people, apparently was trying to get through to those seriously considering the basic problems of life and death. It was not just dismissing the argument for religion as ridiculous.

The Soviet leadership seemed confident at one time that religion could be made to wither away, just as Marx said the state would under Communism.

Although the 1936 Stalin constitution guarantees freedom of worship, churches have been closed gradually and the training of new priests or other religious leaders has been hampered.

The obvious calculation behind this was that the people, without the traditional means to sustain their faith, would lose interest and accept the atheism taught in the schools and extolled in the press.

The churches to survive are obliged to be inconspicuous and unassertive. The Communist regime imposes many restrictions to keep them from getting publicity and to reduce their importance in the community.

Social and charitable work is banned. Sermons are censored. Children are not allowed to attend services.

Some members have balked at this state control and broken away from the recognized groups like the Russian Orthodox Church under Patriarch Alexei of the All-Union Council of Evangelical Christians and Baptists.

These underground believers are little heard of, except when their leaders are caught and tried for violating laws against teaching religion to the young or holding unauthorized meetings. The result has been that while religious belief continues the outward manifestations are rare.

"Pedestal for Monument"
Major L'Enfant, French engineer who served in the American Revolution, laid out the original plan for the city of Washington, D.C. In selecting a site for the Capitol itself, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica, he said: "I could discover no one (site) so advantageously to greet the congressional building as that on the west end of Jenkin's Heights which stands as a pedestal waiting for the monument."

WIN AT BRIDGE

Skillful Play Gets Overtricks

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In recent years Bob Barrett of Houston played only in his home town tournaments and attended as many Texas tournaments as he could. After all, when you get to be close to 80, tournaments can become quite a strain. His recent death leaves quite a gap in Texas bridge because he won many an event with his favorite partners, John Gerber, L. R. Robertson and the late George Heath.

Like most old-timers, Bob retained his skill as a dummy player and could pick up overtricks when the defense gave him a chance.

West's opening heart lead gave him such a chance even though East made the good play of the seven of hearts instead of the king. Bob won with the nine and led the nine of spades to East's jack. East's best play would have been a diamond but East played the six of clubs.

Bob won that trick with the ten and came up with a key play. He laid down his ace of hearts. Bob was sure that West did not open a four card suit and therefore East could have but one more heart. Bob didn't know it was the king but he didn't really care. He wanted to strip East of a potential exit card. When the king of hearts fell Bob played a heart to dummy's queen. He didn't mind setting up tricks for West because he wasn't going to let West in the lead any time. East had to let a diamond go. He could not afford to throw away a black card.

A club lead and queen finesse came next. Then Bob cashed his ace of clubs and led another club to East's king. He let a couple of dummy's diamonds go on those two clubs. East could do nothing but take his ace of diamonds and give up.

One no-trump making four isn't anything sensational in rubber bridge but this was worth a top score in an important duplicate game.

Wolves Claw Bobcats for 14 to 6 Win

BY RALPH ROUNTON

Star Sports Writer

Many people who do not like to lose got a bad taste last night, as the Prescott Curley Wolves scored victory over our Hope Bobcats, 14-6. But it meant much more to the Prescott community.

This was the first time that Prescott has beaten the Bobcats since the 1930's, as the Curley Wolves ruined the Bobcats' home opener for the new season. And the Cats will suffer from that defeat for a long time, as we lost several key players to injuries.

After two ball games now, the Bobcats have had five starters hurt at one time or another. And a couple are out for indefinite periods of time. Buzz Andrews was injured late in the third quarter, but the extent of his health is unknown at this moment. Tackle Carroll Beck (6-4, 210) missed last night's game, and will be out for an unknown period.

After stalling on the first series, the Bobcats punted. Prescott nearly broke on a pass from Bill Greer to Dan Culpepper, but the aerial was just too long. From that point, after three minutes of play, quarterback Bill Greer began punishing the Bobcat wide sides with the option plays, on which he almost invariably ran for good yardage. Then John Henley hit Greer hard, Mickey Allen jumped on the loose ball, and Hope took over at the Prescott 47. Allen then was piled on after carrying to the 45, and the Cats had a first and ten at the Curley Wolves 30 yard line.

Buzz Andrews then barely overthrew Rodney Jones, who was wide open near the goal line. The missed opportunity was not repeated, as the Cats were pushed back until forced to kick. The teams exchanged punts, and Hope took over at our own 39. Then the Bobcats' only sustained drive as the Cats drove to paydirt in seven plays for the 61 yards, with Kenney Koen carrying it over from the one on the final play of the first quarter. Harrisfield's PAT was wide, and Hope led 6-0.

But the Curley Wolves took the kickoff and went 62 yards to even it up, with the crucial play being a major penalty against the Bobcats after a pass from Greer to Ronnie White. Greer scored from the one on a quarterback sneak, and with 6:05 left in the half White booted the crucial point after, and Prescott led by the margin of 7-6.

Once again the Bobcats threatened helped along by the injury of cornerback Mike Koger, a good tackler. But on fourth down, at the Prescott 34 a hole opened in the offensive pass blocking, and Buzz Andrews was hit for a loss. Prescott took over on downs, but on second and third downs the measurements for the first down were close enough to use a microscope, but were millimeters short.

White punted on fourth down, and the Bobcats gave a valiant offensive effort in moving the ball into Prescott territory, but a clipping penalty and several losses kept the Cats behind after two periods of play by the score of 7-6. The Bobcats led the statistics at halftime easily, with 129 yards total offense to Prescott's 79 yards. Hope also led the first downs 9-4.

A rejuvenated bunch of Bobcats came out to play in the second half. After stopping the Curley Wolves cold, the Cats took over at their own 30 yard line and began to move. The cheerleaders and the Bobettes led the every-growing enthusiasm, and they led a spine-tingling pep rally yesterday afternoon in the High School Auditorium. But now the Bobcats kept piling up first downs and total offense, as they hadn't before.

The Bobcats ground up yardage, and had the momentum going Hope's way. Then Mickey Allen began grinding out another pile, and the ball got away from him. Prescott recovered, and the tide of the game changed that quick. Greer kept on the option for five yards, but a penalty on the next play wiped that gain out and the Curley Wolves had second and ten at their own 43 yard line. Then the play that broke the camel's back appeared.

Greer drifted out on the option, but suddenly straightened up and fired to Ronnie White, who had outran his defender at

AFL Teams to Open Play for Keeps

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The American Football League presents its first full schedule of regular season play this weekend while Detroit is at St. Louis tonight in the start of the National Football League's final series of exhibitions.

The AFL opened its regular season a week ago, Denver taking Boston 26-21 in the only game, but has its first full, four-game schedule starting Saturday.

Defending champion Kansas City is at Houston and Boston is at San Diego, both at night, Saturday. New York is at Buffalo and Denver is at Oakland in day games Sunday.

The NFL offers eight games, six of them Saturday night, with single games Friday and Sunday in the close of exhibitions that is certain to push preseason attendance past the two-million mark. The NFL opens regular season play the following weekend.

Saturday's schedule has Atlanta (2-1) at New Orleans (4-1); Baltimore (3-1) at Dallas (2-2); Chicago (1-3) vs. Philadelphia (4-1) at Memphis, Tenn.; New York (1-2) at Green Bay 5-0; Pittsburgh (2-2) vs. Washington (3-1) at Norfolk, Va., and San Francisco (2-2) at Los Angeles (5-0).

Cleveland (0-5) is at Minnesota (2-2) Sunday in a nationally televised game.

The Chiefs, odds-on to repeat as AFL champs, have virtually the same team back that dominated the league last year. The major change has defensive halfback Fletcher Smith replacing injured Fred Williamson.

Len Dawson, who sat out the final exhibition game, will start at quarterback for the Chiefs, who beat Houston 24-0 in an exhibition match. Jack Lee will go for Houston.

Buffalo has settled on trade acquisition Tom Flores as its No. 1 quarterback over Jack Kemp. The Bills' nationally televised game with New York is the first of a four-game home stand. Buffalo beat New York 31-23 in a preseason game less than two weeks ago.

In two major trades Thursday, the Miami Dolphins sent rookie quarterback Jon Britten to San Diego for a draft choice, while the Los Angeles Rams acquired defensive tackle Roger Brown from Detroit for three draft choices. The Rams needed Brown as a fill-in for injured Roosevelt Grier.

Stanky Gets Thing He Really Wanted

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Eddie Stanky of the Chicago White Sox has a new bicycle and a little poodle named Go-Go.

They are belated birthday gifts.

The bike, wrapped in plastic, was presented to him by his players after he had said in an interview that, as a boy, he had the best spikes and best glove but never had what he really wanted, a bike.

Joe Horlen has a sweatshirt with Grissom's Gorillas labeled across the front. Gary Peters has one that says Grover's Groaners and Tommy John's reads Muggsy's Marauders.

All this, plus a free-selection juke box in the dressing room, helps keep the Sox loose in the frenzied four-team American League pennant race.

The Sox need all escape they can get from the pressure boiler as they open a four-game home series tonight against one of the top four, the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers have won eight of 14 from Chicago this season but are 2-3 in Comiskey Park.

Both teams are on a hot streak and the series could draw 100,000 customers. The Sox have won seven of their last nine games while Detroit has captured five of six.

This will be the first meeting of the Tigers and White Sox since Stanky hurled some barbs in a magazine piece he co-authored.

He merely said the Tigers had the best personnel and should be 10 games in front; implied that Tiger pitcher Joe Sparta chokes in the late innings and that infielder Dick McAuliffe saves himself errors by playing ground balls side-saddle.

"We didn't pay any attention to that stuff," says Detroit skipper Mayo Smith. "Sparta can't be too upset. The last time out he pitched a two-hitter and he's got five shutouts. And the way this race has been going, any one of the four of us should be 10 games out in front."

NFL: 12-Philadelphia Eagles

GENERAL COMMENT—Joe Kuharich brings an emotional turbulence to the Eagles, but you got to give the guy credit. He also brought them to second place last year and has put together a squad that's physically capable of going all the way. They need to find a spark to become champs.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Norm Snead's come out of the doghouse via process of elimination. Jack Concannon was traded, King Hill hurt. So Snead, with that strong arm, unfurls the Eagle hopes. Rating—B.

RECEIVING—Not many coups like Eagles pulled in getting Mike Ditka for tight end, Gary Ballman for flanker. They're both all-pro class. And if Ray Poage can get healthy for a full season at split end, the receiving unit can rate with any in football. Fred Hill and Ron Goodwin are still around as insurance, plus Jim Kelly at tight end. Rating—A-

RUNNING—So many that Kuharich might have trouble finding enough exercise for all. Timmy Brown at halfback, Tom Woodeschick at full figure to start. But Izzy Lang will push at fullback. And there are three good-looking rookies: Harry Wilson, Dan Berry and Harry Jones, who has stuff to be superstar. Rating—A-

LINE—Start at right tackle with Bob Brown, who's best in football. At center, old Jim Ringo provides leadership, but they were hurt by retirement of guard Ed Blaine and have been trying to get by with a free agent, Dick Hart. Guard Jim Skaggs, Lane Howell fill out the other spots. Skaggs should get better. Rating—B.

KICKING—Old Sam Baker, who's been exercising his toe for a dozen years, continues to do the double duty of place-kicking and punting.

DEFENSE

LINE—Not the best, not the worst. Not the biggest nor the smallest. Good, solid crew that's anchored by Floyd Peters, a Pro Bowl player, at tackle. Gary Pettigrew, at end, is a soph who'll get good, too. Behind the starting contingent, though, a drop in class is notable. Rating—B.

Norm Snead

LINEBACKERS—Return of Mike Morgan to left corner is a big plus. Harold Wells came last year on opposite side, and Dave Lloyd, in ninth year, has steadied into one of the old reliables of NFL. Ike Kelley and Fred Brown also look like they merit more work. Rating—B.

SECONDARY—When Army service cut into training camp availability of regulars, a lot of young kids got plenty of work and showed they'll help, particularly Bobby Shann at safety. Meagnville, Al Nelson, Jim Nettles figure to be regulars at cornerback. Joe Scarpoti and Nate Ramsey at safety, with Aaron Martin, ex-Lion Jim Kearney for relief. Rating—B-

SUMMARY—Tough to peg this team. They could go all the way, or collapse for lack of leadership on offense. Much of it is wrapped around Norm Snead, who was disenchanted enough to want to be traded last winter. Another defensive lineman wouldn't hurt either. PREDICTION—Third in Capital division.

Allen Fears He May Never Play Again

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The boo birds of Connie Mack Stadium have been stilled. So has the bat of the object of their "affection."

Rich Allen, the National League's All-Star third baseman, sits in the press box, his right arm encased in a cast from his fingers to his elbow. He leans on the good elbow and eats his heart out as he watches his Philadelphia Phillies' teammates in action below.

"I'd rather not be interviewed," he told a reporter. "Please understand. Everybody is asking the same questions. I don't want to talk until this thing comes off."

He pointed to the cast on his hand, at the same time looking down on the field.

"I may never play again," said the 25-year-old Allen. He was hitting .307, with 142 hits, 31 doubles, 10 triples, 23 home runs and 77 RBI before he accidentally stuck his hand through a car headlight while trying to push the stalled vehicle.

Despite his great hitting, the home fans booed him everytime he came to bat. Visiting players, managers and observers shook their heads in wonderment.

A great career in baseball may have flickered out when that powerful hand went through that headlight of a 17-year-old Ford Allen kept just for laughs.

"The little finger and the ring finger are numb," Allen said in a low tone. He added hopefully, "but they said this takes time. They can't really tell until the cast comes off in about five or six weeks."

Allen severed the ulnar nerve and several other arteries and bled profusely.

"Why don't you and your wife take a vacation, go away for a few weeks, get away from it all, he was asked.

"I would, but I have to report at the hospital three times a week."

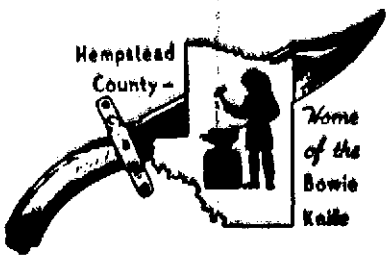

Comes Home in an Ambulance

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Entertainer Eartha Kitt arrived home from her latest singing tour in an ambulance Tuesday.

Miss Kitt collapsed last week-end at Silver Springs, Md., while performing with a musical, "Peg," before it opens on Broadway.

Boston, after suffering a defeat in its league debut against Denver last week, is a one-point favorite over the Chargers.

Ford Strike Affecting the Economy

By KIT KINCADE
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union strike against Ford Motor Co. already is affecting the national economy with layoffs in allied industries.

Some of Ford's other 7,000 suppliers said they had not been affected by the strike, but would be if it dragged on.

The 160,000 Ford employees at plants in 25 states walked off the job at midnight Wednesday when their work contract expired. No negotiations on a new contract have been scheduled but union and company representatives will meet Monday to set up a timetable for resumed bargaining.

The Budd Co., one of Ford's major suppliers laid off some 1,000 of its 5,000 workers Friday at a Philadelphia plant where Budd makes stampings, tools and dies for Ford.

The Dana Corp. laid off 800 workers at its frame plants in the Detroit suburbs of Ecorse and Trenton.

Among the major vendors who said they would be hurt by a protracted strike were Bendix Corp., Kelsey-Hayes Co., Mequay-Norris Manufacturing Co. and Aluminum Corp. of America.

Ford's vice president for public relations, Theodore H. Mecke Jr., said the firm probably will pare its advertising budget as a result of the strike. Ford, ranked as the nation's fourth largest advertiser by the trade publication Advertising Age, spent an estimated $120 million on advertising in 1966, a large chunk of it in the fall when new models are introduced.

Production is continuing at General Motors and Chrysler, although their work contracts expired at the same time.

The UAW, apparently resigned to a long strike, is giving itself two more weeks to boost its $67 million strike war chest. The union rescheduled from Sept. 23 to Oct. 8 a special convention to raise dues for bolstering the strike fund.

In Most Everything the Good Side of the Scale Usually Outweighs Bad

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

"The high cost of dying" has been given much attention and many comments recently with many pointed jabs in the direction of funeral homes and their directors. In a true American spirit the "Arkansas Baptist" on August 17 printed a reply to a critical article which had appeared on its pages on July 27.

We are all aware of the "two sides to every story," but how many times do we honestly try to look in both directions? The "Arkansas Baptist" did.

"Any person with a grain of common sense should realize that it would be economically suicidal for any funeral director to take advantage of the bereaved," the rebuttal stated. "If he were to overcharge, how would he collect his money? And what would that overcharged client have to say about his service three weeks after the funeral?"

"About two or three such dissatisfied people and his career as a funeral director would be finished. But if you examine the records, you will find many funeral establishments that have been serving their people for three generations or more. How could they have survived that length of time if they had taken advantage of people in distress?"

Signed by the board of a funeral home for Dermott-Lake Village, the article also touched on what has been described as "costly tradition" and asked this question: "Would (you) also attack with equal justice the tradition of stained glass windows, 100 thousand dollar organs, wall-to-wall carpeting, costly altars and all the other things that go to make up the modern church or . . . advocate open air assembly for worship, plain wooden benches in stark shells of churches? . . . We know church attendance would suffer severely without these costly traditions."

Though this writer is very much in favor of "living memorials" to the deceased in lieu of flowers, it had to be admitted after reading the above mentioned argument on the other side of the fence that flowers are a very important part of the service for a loved one. The suggestion given was that it might be "much better if people were encouraged to give flowers as well as contributing to their favorite charities, the aim being to keep the flame of kindness and Christian charity alive in all our hearts." Only then did we recall an occasion when the stark absence of flowers made the funeral for a stranger in our town emphasize his loneliness on earth.

It seems to us that it is not to one's best interest to go "over-board" either way. There are good and bad aspects about attitudes and actions on this subject, but usually the good side of the scale outweighs the bad.

U.S. Patent Office Is Streamlined

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Patent Office has struggled for two decades just to keep its head above the mountain of paperwork generated by a growing army of inventors and gadget-makers.

New methods have been streamlined, automation is coming into use and for the first time in years officials say the backlog of pending applications has dropped below 200,000.

A record 70,000 patents, the vast majority to Americans, were issued during the year which ended June 30. The figure is expected to go higher this year.

The big day in the Patent Office is Tuesday, when the "Official Gazette," a weekly book almost an inch thick and listing all new patents, is published by the office.

The Gazette has been a Tuesday ritual since 1872. The newest issue contains patents for the most technical apparatus—and for an automatic shoe shine machine with black and brown polish, a tie clip design, a golf bag bottom and a surfboard cover designed, naturally, by a Californian.

In the first year of Patent Office operation—1790—three patents were issued. The current numbering system was adopted in 1836. A patent gives the inventor the right to exclude all others from making, using or selling his invention for 17 years.

During the last fiscal year 89,000 patent applications were filed, down from the record 93,000 of the previous year—before higher filing fees went into effect.

Figured It Was a Cat

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Justice Court Judge Ellis Otto was driving along Marine View Drive in an open-top sports car when her wig flipped off and landed in a tree.

She said Thursday an unidentified policeman, parked near the tree looking for speeders, told her he would like to help her but he was afraid he would get scratched.

The officer apologized after the lady judge retrieved her own hair piece. He said he thought it was her cat.

Morton Would Change U.S. War Tactics

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton, a foreign policy spokesman of Republican moderates, says the United States should end its far-ranging seek-and-destroy missions in Vietnam and protect the populated part of the country.

Make the enemy "come and try to seek and destroy us," the Kentucky Republican said in an interview.

This tactic, said Morton, might reduce by half the number of American troops needed in Vietnam.

Morton, a former assistant secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, said some new tactic is needed. Bombing, he said, has proved not to be the solution.

He acknowledged he had once completely supported President Johnson's decision to bomb North Vietnam, adding: "I thought this would bring them to the conference table in six months. But I was wrong."

Nor does Morton agree with such hawks as Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who charge the administration with hand-cuffing U.S. air power and call for more intensive bombing.

"More of the same isn't going to get them to the conference table," said Morton. "The real thing we've got to change is the ground strategy."

Morton questioned why elite Marine and Army units should be sent into the sparsely populated jungle regions "where the casualties have been" and then withdrawn.

Instead, he said, "we should pacify the 20 per cent of the ground area where 80 per cent of the people are."

Twins Observe 91st Birthday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Twin brothers celebrate their 91st birthday Saturday.

They are Harry G. Phillips of Vandergrift, Pa., and Charles A. Phillips of Meyersdale, Pa. Harry was a jeweler and optometrist for 49 years. Charles, a dealer in farm machinery for 50, both are retired.

Fulbright Plans Tour of Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has opened an office in Little Rock and plans an extensive speaking schedule throughout the state this fall, an aide said Thursday.

Jack D. Files, Fulbright's legislative aide, said Fulbright planned to "do all the talking he can this fall."

His speaking schedule may have interruptions because of the expected late adjournment of Congress and most of his engagements are being made tentatively, Files said.

Fulbright's Washington office is arranging the schedule, which begins late this month. Files said many of the speeches will be to joint meetings of civic clubs.

Children of Watts Come in Like Doves

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Standing in the heat outside his church, the Rev. James Perrone calls to the children of Watts, and they come running in droves.

The 39-year-old Roman Catholic priest, whom you might remember as Buddy James, gathers his flock in mellow tones emanating from an alto saxophone. He plays it with authority, and why not? For 10 years, he was a first rate sideman in some top bands.

"My whole approach with kids is using music as a kind of bridge," said Father Perrone. "It breaks down the initial tension of meeting with adults."

When he says music, he means jazz, which he plays with style and skill that remind the listener of Paul Desmond.

But for Father Perrone, jazz is merely the medium for his message: The Christian faith he tells to import to his audience, mostly Negro and Mexican-American children from this impoverished section of Los Angeles.

"God says we should use our talents and mine is this," he says. "But jazz from a priest?"

"Many people are surprised that a musician should be a priest," said Father Perrone. "They connect it (jazz) with dope, alcohol and a bad life. What they forget is that there is good in everybody."

Besides, he added with a grin, "a lot of the older hymns don't seem to appeal to the youngsters."

Father Perrone came to St. Odilia's church in Watts only three months ago, but his church-step concerts already have made him known throughout the district. There also has been a noticeable increase in Sunday School attendance at St. Odilia's.

Father Perrone had always been interested in the priesthood. In 1951, he abandoned his career and entered a seminary.

Denies Rumors, Fires Police

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Joaquin Balaguer denied rumors of a plot against his government Thursday but dismissed the commanders of the Dominican air force and national police.

"There is not a proper atmosphere for a coup d'etat," said Balaguer. But Maj. Gen. Enrique Perez, the armed forces secretary, said troops had been dispatched to avert uprisings believed fomenting in five areas.

Summary of Major Labor Disputes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is a summary of major labor disputes around the country:

AUTO INDUSTRY — The strike by some 160,000 United Auto Workers union members against Ford was in its second day and there were indications the walkout could halt the company's production for a long time. Both sides stood firm and no new negotiations were planned, although a subcommittee meeting was scheduled Monday to work out a schedule for further bargaining.

CITY EMPLOYEES — Nearly the entire fire department and almost two-thirds of the police force in Youngstown, Ohio, remained off duty in demands for more pay. Mayor Anthony B. Flak requested National Guard troops to "meet the safety requirement" of the city. Gov. James A. Rhodes denied the request, and Flak planned court action to get the men back to work.

The Des Moines, Iowa, City Council turned to the courts in an attempt to protect essential services in the wake of a work stoppage by some 700 city employees seeking more pay. Police and firemen were not involved.

Firemen in Nashua, N.H., planned to begin a slowdown next Wednesday unless they are given a pay raise. Negotiations are continuing.

TEACHERS — Widening unrest in the ranks of the nation's teachers reached still another metropolitan area as the Baltimore school system was threatened with a strike. Detroit teachers remained out and New York City schools braced for a threatened mass resignation of teachers Monday. Teachers also remained at home or walked picket lines in Broward County, Fla.; East St. Louis, Ill.; and McCracken County, Ky. Demands for higher pay were the issue in most cases.

COPPER INDUSTRY — Efforts by the federal government to mediate a settlement in the eight-week strike by 18 unions against four copper companies broke down Thursday night with no indications the talks will resume in the near future. The unions represent 45,000 workers in six western states and among other demands are seeking what they term "major wage increases." The four companies produce most of the nation's copper.

BRITON SALUED FOR EXPLOITS
SAN REMO, Italy (AP) — Britain's Sir Francis Chichester was saluted Thursday for his seafaring exploits. There were thousands of spectators, an honor guard, a band and a local award for courage.

He was presented the Polena della Bravura—figurehead of bravery—for his solo voyage around the world in the yacht Gipsy Moth IV. Chichester completed the voyage in May.

INSURES HIS FLYING SAUCER
DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — Paul Moller has taken out an insurance policy on his flying saucer. This one really exists.

Moller, a professor of aeronautical engineering at the University of California Davis campus, developed the saucer-type craft.

The 10-foot-wide blue and silver saucer, complete with bubbletop and bucket seats, has flown about four feet off the ground in public demonstrations.

There has been a shift of his views, it comes at a time when many political figures think there is a discernible increase in voter opposition to the war, Morse and Church profess to finding such a trend.

A development of importance in the Republican camp on the war issue was a recent pronouncement by Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky that "I was wrong" in thinking increased bombing of North Vietnam would bring the Communists to the negotiating table.

Bombers Hit Red China Rail Yards

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers aimed tons of explosives today at North Vietnamese guns threatening the South, after fighter-bombers dodged heavy defenses and flew within 20 miles of Red China to blast a jammed rail yard.

Three waves of the eight-engine B52s struck artillery and rocket launchers in the demilitarized zone to prevent them from harassing U.S. Marines in northern South Vietnam, already busy chasing reinforced Red troops. The B52s also made one of their infrequent raids north of the zone Friday night to attack the Communist gun positions. The big planes generally stay away from North Vietnam to avoid Red surface-to-air missiles.

Despite the B52 raids, Communist rockets hit the sand-tagged Marine outposts at Con Thien just below the DMZ and wounded 40 Marines.

Some sharp ground fighting continued in northern South Vietnam, where allied forces are trying to keep the enemy off balance and foil whatever strategy the Reds have for their built-up forces in the area.

War Certain to Be Issue in Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney may have pulled the plug for increasing political debate in the months ahead over the Vietnam war.

The Michigan governor, an active if undeclared candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, may not have had that in mind in complaining he had been "brainwashed" about Vietnam.

But it probably will be one result. And it flies counter to hopes of some Republican strategists as to timing.

Months ago Congressional Republican leaders, assessing the political implications of the war, concluded that careful restraint on criticism was advisable for the time being.

They thought it was much better to let Democrats carry the ball in criticism of a wartime Democratic president.

After all, it is more than a year until the election. Why get painted into a corner this early in the game?

There was no lack of Democratic critics.

The long list was topped by such eminent ones as Sens. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, a committee member.

Then there were such Democratic senators as George McGovern of South Dakota, Robert F. Kennedy of New York, Frank Church of Idaho and others.

To be sure, there have been Republicans all along unhappy with Johnson's course. But these, such as Sens. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Mark Hatfield of Oregon, have not been so vocal as many Democrats.

Now Romney has stirred things up. To many, Romney's own course on Vietnam does not appear wholly consistent.

Last April, he delivered a major speech at Hartford, Conn., which was widely interpreted as pretty much backing Johnson's policies. The President himself viewed it that way.

But Romney, along with saying he was brainwashed, also says the interpretations of his Hartford speech were wide of the mark.

If there has been a shift of his views, it comes at a time when many political figures think there is a discernible increase in voter opposition to the war, Morse and Church profess to finding such a trend.

Body Paint

A New York secretary wearing a chaste dress and with her legs painted turquoise blue commented on the current fashions in body paint. "It's just like wearing false eyelashes. You feel it at first, but then after a while you get used to it. My friend Alice paints daisies on her knees," she said.

Makes you sort of yearn for the good old days, doesn't it, when body paint was something that went on cars?—Atlanta (Ga.) Journal

Oh, Really?

American consumers would be happy to pay more for groceries if they were assured the extra money would go to farmers, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman says.

The farmers will be glad to know they are represented so well in Washington. But has Mr. Freeman been asking around consumer country lately?—Norfolk (Va.) Virginian-Pilot

Mormon Leader 94 Years Old

HUNTSVILLE, Utah (AP) — President David O. McKay, leader of the 2.5-million-member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Mormon celebrated his 94th birthday today at the small north Utah farm where he was born. He was selected church president in 1951.

The forced political marriage of the two military leaders on the same ticket was an uneasy one.
